Third edition of 'Lokmanthan' inaugurated

"Time to step out of our echo chambers of social structures and social media algorithms": Vice President

New Delhi, Sept. 22 (PIB)

The Vice President, Shri Jagdeep Dhankhar today called for strengthening the thriving space for discussion and dialogue in public realm, suggesting that 'intolerance of others' point of view is antithetical to the vision of free exchange of thought'. Recalling that India has a great heritage of debate, discussion and knowledge sharing, the Vice President said that lessons can be drawn from the past to uplift the quality of discussions in public domain, especially legislatures.

Shri Dhankhar added that in the 'race for one-upmanship and under the constant glare of the public eye, debates - televised or on social media - are turning into cacophonous fighting arenas'. He called upon media to take the initiative, introspect, "pass on the mike and let unique, original and marginalized voices come to the mainstream".

Calling for healthy, open-minded discussions, the Vice President said it is "time to step out of our echo chambers - caused by both social structures and social media algorithms - and let our mind breathe". "We must revive the art of listening; we must rediscover the art of dialogue", he stressed.

The Vice President was inaugurating the third edition of a national colloquium 'Lokmanthan' organized by Prajna Pravah in Guwahati today. Appreciating the organizers for highlighting the rich cultural ethos of North Eastern India, Shri Dhankhar observed that in their diversity, "the cultural practices of the region resonate with the quintessential Indian values of peace, harmony and universal brotherhood".

Addressing the gathering, the Vice President underlined the role of intelligentsia in Indian society, referring to how sages advised kings historically on issues of policy and ensured harmony and stability in society. Calling upon intellectuals to speak upon prevailing issues, he said that "if our intelligentsia decides to opt for silence in the current times, then this very important section of society is bound to be silenced forever. They must freely practice dialogue and deliberation so that societal morality and propriety are preserved".

Underscoring the primacy attached to Freedom of Expression in the Constitution and the rich quality of Constituent Assembly debates, the Vice President said that they are a testimony to the importance of free-spirited and healthy discussion that India has long cherished. "Freedom of expression is the nectar of democracy", he said.

The Vice President called upon the intellectuals from the civic society to play a proactive role in ensuring the harmonious balance of the three branches of the State - Legislature, Executive and Judiciary - through deliberative mechanisms.

States/UTs Leadership Meeting of Indian Red Cross Society inaugurated

Sewa & Sahyog are part of our legacy, integral part of our Sanskar and also define motto of IRCS: Health Minister

New Delhi, Sept. 22 (PIB)

"Sewa and Sahyog are part of our legacy, and they form an integral part of our Sanskar. These also underline and define the motto of Indian Red Cross Society which is known for its work to help and aid humanity in times of need and emergencies". This was stated by Dr Mansukh Mandaviya, Union Minister for Health and Family Welfare and Chairman, IRCS as he inaugurated the States/UTs Leadership Meeting of Indian Red Cross Society (IRCS), here today. The purpose of the two-day Chintan Shivir is to discuss ways and means to improve functioning of IRCS. State Red Cross Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Secretaries and other dignitaries from IRCS participated in the meeting.

Congratulating IRCS for its commendable work, Dr Mansukh Mandaviya stated that "Red Cross is identified with hope and 'Asha' for people. It epitomises credibility and assured presence". At the same time he cautioned that if IRCS does not keep pace with changing times, its relevance and identity may be lost. "IRCS needs to introspect on its strengths and weakness, and chart an action plan on how does it redefine itself to embrace the changing role with time. This may need deep diving into structural and organisational structures, attention of discipline in working of IRCS regional centres, transparency in appointments, better grievance redressal mechanisms, better utilisation of digital technology for people-centered activities among other things", he noted.

Mid-year refit review and mid-year infrastructure & indigestion review conferences held at NSRY

Port Blair, Sept. 22

Indian Navy's Mid-Year Refit Review (MYRR) and Mid-Year Infrastructure and Indigenisation Review (MYIIR) of 2022 for Eastern Naval Command and Andaman & Nicobar Command was inaugurated by Lt Gen Ajai Singh, AVSM, Commander-in-Chief Andaman and Nicobar Command yesterday at Naval Ship Repair Yard, Port Blair.

The review chaired by Vice Admiral Sandeep Naithani, AVSM, VSM, Chief of Material, was attended by representatives of Naval Headquarters, Eastern Naval Command, HQ ANC, Repair Yards, Material Organizations, Naval Trials and Acceptance Authority (NATAA) and Indian Navy Ship Maintenance Authority (INSMMA).

In consonance with Efficient Refit Management philosophy of IN, discussions were focused on improving the refit processes of ships. The Chief of Material in his keynote address emphasized the need for embracing contemporary technologies while adhering to good engineering practices whilst implementing measures to reduce refit timelines.

The MYRR & MYIIR concluded today with detailed discussions on transforming maintenance policies to keep Naval Ships combat ready, augmenting infrastructure to meet growing requirements of the Navy and maximizing efforts towards indigenization to reduce dependency on foreign manufacturers/OEMs, a press release from ANC said.
