Confers Prime Minister's Awards for Excellence ...

every citizen in realizing their dreams and the negativity that was associated with the system in the previous years, turns into positivity", the Prime Minister added. Throwing light on decades of experience after India's independence, the Prime Minister stated the importance of last-mile delivery in the implementation of Government Schemes. He gave examples of results from policies of previous Governments and mentioned that there were more than 4 crore fake gas connections, more than 4 crore fake ration cards, and support was provided to 1 crore fictitious women and children by the Ministry of Women and Child Development, fake scholarships were offered to approximately 30 lakh youths by Ministry of Minority Welfare, and lakhs of fake accounts were created under MGNREGA to transfer the benefits of workers who never existed. The Prime Minister highlighted that a corrupt ecosystem had emerged in the country under the pretext of these fake beneficiaries. He credited the civil servants for the transformation that has taken place in the system where roughly 3 lakh crore rupees have been saved from landing in the wrong hands, which is now being used for the welfare of the poor. The Prime Minister emphasized that when time is limited, it becomes very critical to decide the direction and working style. "Today's challenge is not about efficiency but in figuring out how to find and remove deficiencies", he said. He recalled the time when in the garb of deficiency even the small aspect was attempted to be controlled. Today, he continued, the same deficiency is being turned into efficiency and removing obstacles in the system. "Earlier, the thinking was that the Government will do everything, now the thinking is that the Government will work for everyone", said the Prime Minister highlighting the efficient use of time and resources to serve everyone. "Motto of the Government is 'Nation First-Citizen First', today's Government's priority is prioritizing the deprived", the Prime Minister remarked, informing that the Government is going up to Aspirational Districts and up to Aspirational blocks. He said today's Government is treating border villages as the first villages rather than the last villages. He said that for 100 percent saturation, we will need even more hard work and innovative solutions. He gave the example of Departments asking for NoCs and information that is available somewhere in the system. He said for ease of living and ease of doing business we will have to find solutions for these.

Giving the example of PM Gatishakti Master Plan, the Prime Minister explained that all data layers related to any infrastructure project can be found on a single platform and stressed the need to utilize it to the maximum for better planning and execution in the social sector. He further added that it will greatly benefit in identifying the needs of citizens, tackling issues related to education that might arise in the future, and enhancing communication between departments, districts and blocks while also helping in the formulation of future strategies.

The Prime Minister stressed that the Amrit Kaal has brought immense challenges along with great opportunities. The Prime Minister elaborated that today's aspirational citizens are not willing to wait for long to see changes in the systems and this will need our full effort, he said. Taking quick decisions and implementing them with speed has become all the more important as the expectations of the world from India have also risen dramatically. As the world is saying that India's time has arrived, there is no time to be wasted by the bureaucracy of the country. "The country has put its faith in you, work while maintaining that trust. Basis of all your decisions should always be the national interest", he insisted.

Highlighting the importance and necessity of political parties with different ideologies in a democracy, the Prime Minister stressed the need for Bureaucracy to assess whether the political party in power is utilizing the taxpayers' money for the benefit of the nation. "It is the duty of the Bureaucracy to analyze whether a political party is making use of taxpayers' money for the benefit of their own organization or the nation's", the Prime Minister continued, "if it is using the money to create a vote bank or making the lives of the citizens easier; if it is advertising itself with the Government treasure or making the people aware; if it is appointing its own party workers in various organizations or creating a transparent process for recruitment." Recalling the words of Sardar Patel about the Bureaucracy being the steel frame of India, the Prime Minister said that it is time to live up to the expectations and prevent the dreams of the youth from getting crushed along with taxpayers' money from being destroyed.

Concluding the address, the Prime Minister stated that young civil servants have the opportunity to make a mark of prominence in history when the accomplishments of the nation will be evaluated after 100 years of independence. "You can say with pride that I have played a role in creating new systems for the country and also improving it. I am sure all of you will continue to expand your role in nation-building", the Prime Minister concluded.
