WORLD VETERINARY DAY

I am glad to learn that World Veterinary Day is being celebrated in Andaman and Nicobar Islands on 29th April, 2023 alongwith rest of the World. It is a day dedicated to recognizing the critical role of Veterinary professionals in protecting animal health, ensuring food safety, and preventing the spread of zoonotic diseases. Veterinarians are engaged in diverse roles ranging from working with pets and livestock to conducting research on emerging infectious diseases.

The theme for this year's celebration is "Promoting diversity, equity and inclusiveness in the Veterinary profession". Diversity is about empowering people and respecting what makes them different. Inclusiveness focuses on putting in place the organisational and systemic conditions that enable a more diverse community. The theme inspires to encourage actions to promote the values of diversity, equity and inclusiveness in veterinary profession so that it can provide the best possible care to all the animals.
