willing to pay for these inputs, underscoring his commitment to maintaining a successful and sustainable poultry operation.

One of the key indicators of Rao's success is his dedication to the health and well-being of his poultry. He diligently followed a vaccination schedule, a critical aspect of disease prevention in the poultry industry. At present, his poultry farm boasts a stock strength of 1500 one-month-old Vanraja chicks and 500 two-month-old Nicobari chicks. These numbers reflect his dedication to growing and maintaining a robust poultry business. His choice of feed is not only practical but also health-conscious. What sets his approach apart is his conscious decision not to administer antibiotics or multivitamins, emphasizing a commitment to natural and sustainable practices.
