MESSAGE

Today, on this special occasion of the 22nd Raising Day of the only Operational Quad-Services Command of the Nation, it is my proud privilege & a matter of great honour that my thoughts in the form of this message are reaching out to each & every valiant soldier, sailor, airman and navik serving under the proud flag of ANC. I have been fortunate to have had the singular privilege of having been the CINCAN and CNS, wherein I have been operationally and now, administratively closely associated with the functioning of this prestigious Command.

The significance and importance of unified operations to handle current day conflict under a centralized Command structure emerged in the aftermath of the Kargil War of 1999. The Group of Ministers' (GoM) report on National Security recommended the replacement of the FORTAN, with a unified Andaman & Nicobar Command, which would control the assets of the three services and the Coast Guard on the Islands.

Based on these recommendations, the Government approved the establishment of the Andaman & Nicobar Command (ANC) as a Quad-Services Command on 11 May, 2001. Accordingly, the Command was raised on 08 Oct., 2001 under the first Commander-in-Chief Andaman & Nicobar (CINCAN), Vice Admiral Arun Prakash, AVSM, VrC, VSM. All components of the three services and the Coast Guard positioned at the Islands were placed under operational control of the CINCAN. In another pioneering foresighted move of the Government in 2017, all individual component lands of the Army, Navy, Air Force & Coast Guard in A & N Islands were merged under the common and singular custody of the CINCAN, on behalf of the Ministry of Defence.

The Command has progressed further towards better integration by creation of integrated Station Headquarters in May this year to bring Estate Management, works services, budgetary control all under one roof, thus freeing the Components Commander to focus on operational tasks.

I also congratulate the ANC for undertaking recruitment of more than 300 Tradesmen (SK) in a short span of time, thus strengthening the NSRY with much needed manpower.

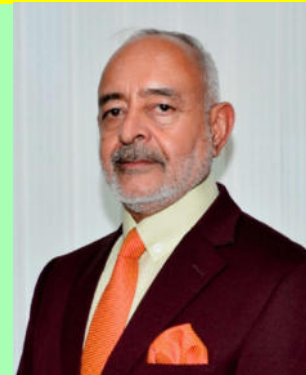

I feel proud to be a part of the glorious history of this fledgling Command and extol all officers and personnel to continue to serve with synergy and professionalism which is showing the way for the larger theatreisation endeavor at hand. May the flag of the Command always keep soaring high and achieve greater laurels to create a name for itself. Best wishes and heartiest compliments to one and all on this proud and memorable day.

MESSAGE

On this very special occasion of the 90th anniversary of the Indian Air Force, it gives me immense pleasure and great honour to express my gratitude towards service to the nation by Air Warriors. The impeccable record of the Indian Air Force as the savior of Indian skies glorifies its nine decade long journey to keep the sovereignty and integrity of the nation always intact.

As an integral part of the only Tri-services operational Command, Indian Air Force has demonstrated jointmanship in every sphere of its professional commitments since its inception in 2001. True to the flavor of the Andaman & Nicobar Command, integration and unification of the Quad-Services have been on the forefront throughout. Besides military assignments, the force has exhibited dedicated selfless support on various occasions including Aid to Civil power in the conduct of HADR (Humanitarian Assistance & Disaster Relief) mission during Tsunami 2004, contribution during COVID-19 pandemic towards critical medical evacuation and tackling sub-conventional aerial threats. Support by the IAF during peace time has always been praiseworthy. I am confident that IAF is capable of thwarting any external threat to our nation's security in future and proud of its achievements towards harnessing the entire realm of our nation's aerospace in a professional manner conforming to the highest standards.

On the eve of Air Force Day, I convey my sincere greetings to all Air Veterans, Air Warriors, Non-Combatants, DSC personnel, Civilians and their families and wish them continued success in all future endeavors.
