Jarawa Facts

The Andaman Trunk Road, which cuts through the Jarawa's forest, brings poachers, settlers and tourists into the heart of their land. The Supreme Court of India in 2002 ordered that the road must be closed, but it has never been complied with.

Your Nature Guide

The Oceanic Medley: Of the 25 modern phyla of groups of animals, only four are represented on land, and all 25 are represented in the oceans! However, there is one extremely important class of animals that is almost absent here: insects, which are so abundant on land. Why? No one really seems to know. Some scientist think that crustaceans (shrimps, lobsters, and crabs) may occupy in the sea the place that is occupied by the insects of land.

The Sunlight Zone: This zone is the oceans garden where sunlight streams through. Plants grow here, produce food through photosynthesis, and support animals life. This layer where air meets water is home to many species of animals important to us economically and ecologically. Here you find animals in various stages of their life cycles-eggs, larvae, juveniles, and adults.

Plankton: this is a term used to describe the smelters, free floating plants and animals, which just drift along with the winds and currents. Some plankton have a limited swimming ability and can migrate daily in a vertical direction.

Member of Parliament Demands Daily Ferry Services between Port Blair and Long Island to Promote Tourism in the Island

Port Blair, Oct. 18: The Member of Parliament, Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Shri. Kuldeep Rai Sharma has requested the Chief Secretary, A&N Administration to operate a daily direct ferry between Port Blair and Long Island to promote tourism in Long Island and generate employment.

In a letter addressed to the Chief Secretary, the Member of Parliament mentioned that post pandemic, Tourism is slowly picking up in Andaman & Nicobar Islands and the number of tourists visiting these Islands are also increasing.

He said that for further promotion of Tourism and opening of more options for visiting tourists it is necessary to make Long Island easily accessible for visiting tourists and local residents on a daily basis. He pointed out that Long Island has a population of nearly 2000 people and after the closure of the Kitiy Industry a large number of people left the Island and the Island economy suffered a major setback. Since then several attempts were made to promote tourism in the Island but due to difficulty in reaching the Island, most of the tourists stayed away from Long Island and tourism could not flourish in the Island.

To promote Tourism in Long Island in a big way, the Member of Parliament requested the Chief Secretary to start direct daily ferry service from Port Blair to Long Island.

He said that the ferry can remain standby for the entire

Centralised Extended Producers Responsibility (EPR) Portal Developed to Register PIBO's

Port Blair, Oct. 18: Extended Producers Responsibility (EPR) regime under Plastic Waste Management Rules, refers to responsibility of Producers, Importers and Brand-owners including producers and manufacturers of compostable plastics to ensure processing of their plastic packaging waste through recycling, re-use or end of life disposal (such as co-processing/ Waste-to-energy/ Plastic to oil/ road making/ industrial-composting).

In order to streamline implementation process of EPR, the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Government of India, in its fourth Amendment to the Plastic Waste Management Rules, dated February 16, 2022, notified 'Guidelines on Extended Producer Responsibility for Plastic Packaging' in the Schedule II of the Rules.

Accordingly, the Centralized EPR Portal has been developed to register PIBOs who are operating in more than two States with CPCB and those operating in one or two States/UTs shall be registered with the concerned State Pollution Control Boards (SPCBs). Plastic Waste Processors shall also have to register with the concerned SPCB/PCC in accordance with the provisions of the

On Inflation

India's latest inflation data present policymakers with a fraught choice: whether to respond to the latest acceleration in retail price gains to a five-month high with more sizeable interest rate increases, or pause the monetary tightening so as to allow fragile growth to gain more traction. Inflation figures based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI) show retail price gains on a resurgent trajectory with food prices leading the charge. Vegetables and cereals were the biggest culprits, with the prices of the former surging 18% from a year earlier and rising a substantial 2.6% from the preceding month; staple grains, including rice and wheat, climbed 11.5% from September 2021 and increased 2% from August levels. These two food items have a combined weight of 15.7% in the overall CPI and account for more than a third of the food and beverages category's cumulative weight. Rice prices have continued to rise in the face of a projected 6% shortfall in kharif output, the Government's efforts to ease supply through export curbs on non-Basmati rice notwithstanding. Heavy rains at the monsoon's tail end have hit vegetable output, causing wholesale level prices to accelerate by an eye-watering 39.7% in September, with month-on-month gains alone exceeding 10%. The forecast for food prices, therefore, remains clouded with uncertainty, at least in the short term, with the risks tilted to the upside.

The rupee's continuing depreciation against the dollar has further roiled the outlook for price stability, with imported inflation hard to counter through monetary measures. As RBI Deputy Governor Michael Patra noted in the central bank's Monetary Policy Committee meeting last month, that India is a 'net commodity importer, with over a third of the CPI being imported' complicates policymaking, especially when the terms of trade turn unfavourable. Also, with five of the six services categories registering sequential inflation as well, it is hard to disagree with RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das's argument that policy must be aimed at preventing price pressures from broadening. Still, with the latest private sector output trends in S&P Global's survey-based manufacturing and services PMI data for September flagging a renewed slowdown, and a looming global recession pointing to a decline in demand for India's exports, the outlook for growth appears tenuous. Given that monetary policy affects real interest rates with a distinct lag, it may be a difficult but wiser choice to heed the MPC's dissenting voices of Ashima Goyal and Jayanth Varma and refrain momentarily from raising interest rates till the fog of uncertainty lifts and a clearer picture of price and growth trends emerges.

BOB'S BANTER

BY ROBERT CLEMENTS

Seeing Without Eyes..!

"Watch out!" I shouted at the man, as he nearly walked into my parked car.

"Can't you see where you're going?" I asked.

"No," he said, "I'm blind."

I walked up to him and took his hand in mine, I was glad he could not see the tears in my eyes as I led him across the road....

As we walked and I felt his hand in mine, my thoughts went back to another place, another time; I was in Madras Christian College and every weekend, a hostelite came back with me. His name was Prabhu. I used to hold his hand, and walk down from college, down the road, people giggled to see two boys holding each other's hands and walking. They couldn't for the life of themselves imagine why anybody would want to do such a thing in a co-ed college. They could not make out that those eyes of Prabhu, which looked straight ahead, dignified and proud, were eyes which had no sight in them. Prabhu was blind and every weekend, I took him to his home and brought him back on Monday morning to the hostel.

The blind man, who I helped across, touched my shoulder and thanked me. He wore dark glasses, Prabhu never did. "Tell me," Prabhu used to say, "tell me what's happening around us. Tell me about the colour of the sky, about the sights all around."

"Hey Bob," he would suddenly say with mischief in his voice, "you've stopped talking, is she beautiful?"

"How did you know?" I used to ask him, astonished.

"We blind can see," Prabhu used to say with a laugh, "much better than you people with your eyes."

Yes the blind can see much better than us. They know by the sound of footsteps, the kind of person he or she is, whether he bears authority or whether he's cunning or weak. They know from the stillness around, whether there's danger or whether the atmosphere is safe. The blind have intuition that can tell a con man from an honest one. The blind can see the beauty of the soul, even while we get lost in physical forms.

I held Prabhu's hand and took him home, but it was he who taught me how to look deeper than my eyes could see.

A couple of years ago, I went down to Chennai, Prabhu, I heard was now Principal of the Arts College. I called him. It was nearly twenty years since I had seen him. "Hello," I said.

"Bob," he said, "where have you been?"

"How did you know it was me?" I asked. I had tried to disguise my voice. He laughed aloud. "The blind can see," he said simply.

A year ago, he passed away. "Who are you thinking of?" he asks.

"The One who sees for you now," I whisper, as I miss him here on earth..!

Samantha Ruth Prabhu's 'Yashoda' to Release in November

October 18: MUMBAI: Actor Samantha Ruth Prabhu-starrer "Yashoda" will make its debut in theatres countrywide on November 11, the makers announced on Monday.

Written and directed by filmmaker duo Hari Shankar and Harish Narayan, the action thriller will be released in five languages — Telugu, Tamil, Hindi, Kannada and Malayalam.

"Yashoda" is backed by Sivalenka Krishna Prasad under the banner Sridevi Movies. Prasad called the film a "new-age action thriller" with a balanced quotient of mystery and emotions with gripping elements for audiences.

"On the whole, it's an edge-of-the-seat thriller. Playing the titular role, Samantha put her blood & sweat in the action scenes. She dubbed for herself in both Telugu and Tamil. You will witness an entirely new dimension of M a n i s h a r m a 's background music." We haven't compromised on the technical and production values of the film. With a lavish budget we wrapped the shoot in 100 days. Audiences who love new-age cinema will definitely be thrilled to watch 'Yashoda'," the producer said in a statement.

"Yashoda" also stars Varalaxmi Sarathkumar, Unni Mukundan, Rao Ramesh, Murali Sharma, Sampath Raj, Shatru, Madhurima, Kalpika Ganesh, Divya Sripada and Priyanka Sharma in pivotal roles.

Movie Theatre Chain Changes Logo for Amitabh Bachchan

October 18: Hyderabad: Inox, the movie theatre city chain, said it had changed its logo and tagline in all its 705 screens across the nation to feature Hindi film industry icon Amitabh Bachchan who is celebrating his 80th birthday. Puneet

Gupta, AVP, marketing, Inox Leisure Ltd, said, "This is our way of paying respect to the living legend. On the logo of Inox, the face of Big B is embossed. The tagline is changed to 'Live the Legend' from 'Live the Movie'.

At the PVR Galleria at Punjagutta which has been screening hit films featuring Amitabh Bachchan for four days, all the shows were houseful. Many fans turned to OTT platforms to watch their favourite film starring Amitabh Bachchan, the angry young man who became a quiz master.

A Big B fan, Kiranmayee Alivelu, a finalist of the Mrs India contest, said, "No one can replace Amitabh Bachchan on the screen. His romance is so versatile, especially in Sholay." Steve Adams, a professional singer, said the song from the film 'Don' that was picturised on Amitabh Bachchan, "Arre deewano, mujhe pehchan o, gets many requests. No programme is complete with a song from Amitabh Bachchan films, he said.

Apple Watch Pro Buyers May Need to Purchase New Custom Bands

October 18: On September 7, Apple is set to launch four new iPhones as part of the iPhone 14 series, but we also expect the brand to drop some more new products at the September event, including the new rumoured Apple Watch Pro. Expected to be a more rugged and powerful version of the Apple Watch, the Apple Watch Pro is also expected to feature larger dials.

With the larger size, the watch will also likely feature larger strap sizes and this suggests that those who have purchased custom bands to use with previous Apple Watch models, may not be able to use them with the upcoming Apple Watch Pro. The main culprit here is expected to be the 47mm dial size which is reportedly going to be clubbed with a flat display on the Watch Pro, as suggested by a tweet from Apple Hub (@theapplehub).

Apple Watch models over the last few years have had similar sizes and despite numerous feature additions, users would be able to use newer Apple Watch dials with their older straps. That isn't looking likely for the Watch Pro.

Bloomberg's Mark Gurman, who's had a track record of predicting Apple features ahead of launch, has suggested that while the Apple Watch Pro may support older bands, they may not look as aesthetically pleasing with the new size.

Apple is, however, also expected to launch the Apple Watch Series 8 at the event, which will fall in line with the more compact, daily-use design you have seen with previous Apple Watch series. We should know more details about all of Apple's new wearables on September 7 during the launch keynote.

FIND PEACE WITHIN - PART 2

BRAHMAKUMAR
NIKUNJ JI

We need to empower
our soul
by linking with the supreme source of unlimited

Not many of us are aware of the fact that peace is truly our original nature, but when we arrive on the earth, we act through human bodies & lose our original energy in the cycle of action, interaction with proximate matter and souls. When we strip-off of our original positive energies, negativity manifests in our mind, then to actions that finally results in sufferings. When there is suffering, we badly seek our original truly peaceful & blissful state of being. However, our endeavours to attain that peace are limited by certain human constraints, of which the first & foremost is the constraint of the human body. It is due to our attachment to the body and its relations and possessions that the five vices enter our minds. The first fallout of this is that we lose our peace of mind, joy and power. All our actions are tainted by either lust, ego, greed, anger or attachment. We get trapped in a circle of karmic bondages helplessly seeking out liberation from these vices so that we can regain our peaceful state. Even though if we wish to give up our vicious habits, we are unable to do so because our spiritual power is depleted through sinning repeatedly. Hence, we need to empower our soul by linking with the supreme source of unlimited power, the Supreme and also with the power of pure actions. Peace is in fact a corollary of purity. Hence, when the mind is cleared of all impurities, peace and happiness dwell there naturally. But the biggest question is - How does one achieve it? Firstly, we need to understand that peace is a composite phenomenon. Hence one cannot hope to live in peace without hoping the same for his/her neighbours. Therefore our positive actions that ensure peace for self, society and the environment alone can generate and sustain universal peace. However, such actions can result only when we understand our relationship with the Supreme, who is the creator, director and actor & who is beyond all limitations that bind us. He never comes in the bondage of matter and karma, of life and death. He has an abundance of peace, love and happiness so he never has any personal desires. So he can and he does restore peace on earth when all human endeavours at making peace fail. With this divine knowledge the road to spiritual endeavour and attainment of our original peaceful state opens up!! Remember !! unless we make peace with ourselves, we cannot re-establish peace on earth.

While You Were Asleep: Verstappen Likely to Retire from F1 in 2028, Cressy Fires 22 Aces in Stockholm Open, AS Roma Move to Fourth Place In Serie A

October 18: The reigning Formula One champion Max Verstappen has revealed he could retire from F1 as soon as 2028, when his contract expires with Red Bull. Interestingly by that time he will be only be 31.

The Red Bull driver wrapped up his second Championship last week after a chaotic Japanese Grand Prix.

"I don't see myself driving until I'm 40 because I want to also do other stuff," he told Sky Sports.

"I'm having a lot of fun with what I'm doing right now and I'm still in F1 for a couple more years... I'm signed until '28.

"I don't see myself driving until I'm 40 because I want to also do other stuff," he told Sky Sports.

"I'm having a lot of fun with what I'm doing right now and I'm still in F1 for a couple more years... I'm signed until '28.

"I really enjoy being part of this team for a long time and hopefully for a long time to come," he added.

Verstappen's first title was won in last year's season finale at Abu Dhabi, where seven-time champion Lewis Hamilton dominated the race until a late caution. It was then that race control set in motion an unprecedented sequence of events when since-fired race director Michael Masi allowed for a late restart.

Verstappen passed Hamilton to win the race and his first championship, but Mercedes disputed the way the race ended and the teams argued with the FIA for hours before Verstappen was finally, officially named champion and able to celebrate.

Two titles for Verstappen signals a changing of the guard in F1, even if Verstappen's championship-clinching races will forever be remembered for their controversial endings.

11 double faults, 22 aces, 56 total winners, Maxime Cressy had quite a game during his 4-6, 7-6 (5), 6-4 victory over Ilya Ivashka in first-round action at the Stockholm Open. He will be up against the top seed Stefanos Tsitsipas. Tsitsipas has defeated Cressy in their only previous encounter on the pro tour. The Greek beat the serve-and-volleying American 7-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the second round of the 2020 US Open.

The Greek, who has already secured his spot in the season-ending ATP Finals, has a first in the first round of the ATP 250 event.

Midfielder Lorenzo Pellegrini's early penalty helped Jose Mourinho's AS Roma to eke out a narrow 1-0 win over Sampdoria in Serie A.

AS Roma climbed into the fourth spot 22 points from 10 games, and sit four points behind pacesetters Napoli who they host on Sunday.

Jose Mourinho's side went ahead in the ninth minute when Pellegrini fired the spot kick, awarded for handball by Alex Ferrari, past goalkeeper Emil Audero.

The game picked up pace after a pedestrian first half in which Sampdoria did not pose a serious danger to Rui Patricio's goal and Roma did not push hard to increase their lead.

Pat Cummins to Replace Aaron Finch as Australia's ODI Captain

October 18: A year after being appointed as Test skipper, Pat Cummins is Australia's new men's ODI captain. Cummins will be Australia's 27th ODI captain and first pacer to lead a men's team in white-ball cricket. He also becomes the first bowler since late Shane Warne, who captained in 11 ODIs. Cricket Australia on Tuesday announced pace bowler Cummins would take on the extra leadership role, starting with an ODI series against England next month. "I have thoroughly enjoyed playing under Finchy and have learnt an enormous amount from his leadership," Cummins said.

"They are significant shoes to fill", although we are extremely fortunate to have a one-day squad with a huge amount of experience."

David Warner was not able to be considered given his lifetime leadership ban remains in place while CA's Board considers a change to its code of conduct, with Cummins winning out over other candidates like Steve Smith, Alex

Carey, Glenn Maxwell and Mitch Marsh. "We are very fortunate to have a number of high-quality leaders and senior players across all formats," Cricket Australia's high performance manager boss Oliver said.

"The board and selectors agree Pat is the ideal choice to lead the ODI team through the next period including the 2023 World Cup." "The board and selectors agree Pat is the ideal choice to lead the ODI team through the next period including the 2023 World Cup."
